

June 10, 1944

Harriman's brief impressions on Stalin Meeting

Citation:

"Harriman's brief impressions on Stalin Meeting", June 10, 1944, Wilson Center Digital Archive, Container # 172, W. Averell Harriman Papers, Manuscript Division, Library of Congress, Washington, D.C <https://wilson-center.drivingcreative.com/document/219907>

Summary:

Harriman briefs the President on his impressions of a meeting with Stalin. Seven specific memos to follow.

Original Language:

English

Contents:

Original Scan
Transcript - English

~~SECRET~~

44 06-10

Stalin-Molotov Harriman Conversation
Conversations 172 W.A. Harriman papers
LOC

Conversation.

June 10, 1944
The Kremlin

Present: The American Ambassador, Mr. Harriman
Marshal Stalin
Mr. Molotov

Mr. Page, Second Secretary of Embassy
Mr. Pavlov, Secretary to Mr. Molotov

Subject: Message from the President

I said that the President had asked me to pay to Marshal Stalin his respects and to say that he was very gratified at the progress which had been made in all aspects of Soviet-American relations. The Marshal replied that he also was gratified and that "We are going along a good road."

The entire conversation, which is described in a series of seven memoranda*, lasted about two hours. The Marshal looked well but appeared tired before the talk was over.

*Subjects: Message from the President
Future meeting between the President and Marshal Stalin.
The Military Situation.
Shuttle Bombing Bases.
Poland.
The Far East.
China.

EP:na

Reproduced from the Collections of the Manuscript Division, Library of Congress

DEPARTMENT OF STATE

- Retain classification
- With concurrence of _____
- De-classify in part and excise _____
- EO 12356, Sec. 1.2 (a) 1
- ACDC:SR by _____

Handwritten initials and scribbles

Handwritten notes and signatures at the bottom right

SECRET

Conversation ██████████ June 10, 1944
██████████████ The Kremlin

Present: The American Ambassador, Mr. Harriman

□ Marshal Stalin
□ Mr. Molotov

□ Mr. Page, Second Secretary of Embassy
□ Mr. Pavlov, Secretary to Mr. Molotov

Subject: Message from the President

□ I said that the President had asked me to pay to Marshal Stalin his respects and to say that he was very gratified at the progress which had been made in all aspects of Soviet-American relations. The Marshal replied that he also was gratified and that "We are going along a good road."

□ The entire conversation, which is described in a series of seven memoranda*, lasted about two hours. The Marshal looked well but appeared tired before the talk was over.

*Subjects: Message from the President.

□ Future meeting between the President
□ and Marshal Stalin.
□ The Military Situation.
□ Shuttle Bombing Bases.
□ Poland.
□ The Far East.
□ China.

[Copy illegible State
No copy to Embassy
EHO]

EP:nn